

IRIS HILL

Iris Hill is a rock band hailing from Israel. Their music is a strong combination of different musical influences, ranging from melodic indie rock tones, down the gritty guitar riffs and gigantic hooks. Fans of artists as diverse as Radiohead, Phoenix, as well as Arctic Monkeys are definitely going to appreciate the group's distinctive sound.

Ever since their inception in 2016, Iris Hill performed at some of Israel's most iconic music venues, and toured across the Netherlands, charming their audience with astonishing grooves and emphatic guitar lines.

The group connected with producer Noam Levinberg, who collaborated with them to record their first EP. The project was released on December 2019 and has gained the band a reputation of musical diversity with a unique character.

The group writes songs in English, with immediate lyrics and heartfelt tones that are easy to connect with for people of all walks of life.

Iris Hill is currently working on their first full length album while releasing self made music videos.
